Dear Miny,

The proposed development at Kirk Hallam would be not only detrimental to the residents who already live there in as much as the infrastructure regarding doctors, dentists, schools would not be able to cater for another 1200 homes and their residents as it's a real struggle to get appointments with health professionals as also school places are at a premium.

The green spaces are places that people hold in deep regard with many people coming from outside the area to take advantage of walking this beautiful area. There are innumerable species of animals, insects, birds and reptiles in this area that would be displaced at best and more likely disappear altogether if the development went ahead.

From a personal point of view this green space has been of great help with my own and a family members mental health
