Introduction

The Council is committed to being transparent about how it collects and uses the data it collects and to meeting its data protection obligations.

The Development Management Service processes planning applications, planning appeals, pre-application advice and general service enquiries, and the investigation of alleged breaches of planning control.

What information does the council collect?

The council collects a range of information about you. This includes

- Your name, address and contact details, including email address and telephone number,

The council may collect this information in a variety of ways, for example:

- The data you provide on the standard planning application form(s);
- The data you provide on representations made in respect of planning applications;
- The data you provide on any enquiries you make;
- The data we request from you if you are making an enquiry of an alleged breach of planning control.

Data will be stored in confidential electronic filing systems and on occasion in temporary paper files.

Why does the council process personal data?

The Development Management Service requires certain data from you in order to identify who you are and where you live in order to assess your planning proposals, or how planning proposals made by others may affect you, and to enable our Officers to make contact with you to discuss your enquiry/application and provide updates on your case.

Who has access to data?

If you have made a planning application, your name will be available for inspection on-line. All other personal data is redacted from the application form and not available for public inspection. The data will only be accessed by Officers or sub-contractors of the council in the performance of their duties relevant to your planning application or enquiry.

If you make representations on a planning application, your comments will be referenced to your postal address and summarised in the officer's report which is published online. The council is legally obliged to share the data you provide with the Planning Inspectorate in the event of a planning appeal.

Data provided through planning enquiries and enforcement cases is not made available to the public.

In the event of an investigation by the Local Government Ombudsman the data you provide may be shared with the Ombudsman.

The council will not transfer your data outside the European Economic Area.

How does the council protect data?

The council takes the security of your data seriously. It has internal policies and controls in place to ensure that your data is not lost, accidentally destroyed, misused or disclosed, and is not accessed except by our employees in the proper performance of their duties.

For how long does the council keep data?

The council is required to maintain a register of planning applications submitted to the authority and records are held accordingly. Enquiries and Enforcement cases are also kept indefinitely as material considerations in the determination of applications.

Your rights

As a data subject, you have a number of rights. You can:

- Access and obtain a copy of your data on request
- Require the council to change incorrect or incomplete data
- Require the council to delete or stop processing your data, for example where the data is no longer necessary for the purpose of processing; and

- Object to the processing of your data where the council is relying on its legitimate interests as the legal ground for processing.

If you would like to exercise any of these rights, please contact the Council's nominated Data Protection Officer, Rachel Fernandez, performance and community Manager. Erewash Borough Council, Town Hall, Wharnccliffe Road Ilkeston, Derbyshire, DE7 5RP, email rachel.fernandez@erewash.gov.uk, tele: 0115 9072244

If you believe that the council has not complied with your data protection rights, you can complain to the information Commissioner.

What if you do not provide personal data?

The Council has a statutory obligation to process your data in relation to planning applications and appeals under the Town & Country Planning Act 1990 and the Town & Country Planning (Development Management Procedure) (England) Order 2015.

You are not under any statutory or contractual obligation to provide your data to the council in respect of enquiries or enforcement cases. However if you do not provide the information, the council may not be able to respond to your enquiries properly or at all.

Automated decision-making

The Development Management service is not based on automated decision-making.
